DECISION

Decision of the Tribunal

The Tribunal determines that the Applicant is entitled to grant an exemption from payment of the costs of painting the windows at the Forum and the Square to any lessee who installs new windows to their property at or before the commencement of the painting works rather than share the total cost amongst all lessees.

The application

1. Under the leases for the properties at the Forum and the Square, the lessees are responsible for their windows, including replacing them when required, while the Applicant management company is obliged to decorate the outside of the building, including the window frames, every five years.

2. Perhaps unsurprisingly, the lessees who have recently replaced their windows object to those same windows being painted unnecessarily at their expense through the service charge. The Applicant is agreeable to exempting them, both from that element of the decoration works and the resulting costs, but seeks a determination that they are entitled to do so. Some lessees have indicated their support for the Applicant's position but none have indicated any opposition.
3. Essentially, the Tribunal is being asked to determine a simple question, namely whether the cost of painting windows may be charged to each lessee at the actual cost of painting that lessee's windows rather than dividing the total cost amongst all lessees. Although not expressly stated, the Tribunal assumes that the former arrangements will result in some lessees having a higher charge than under the latter arrangements so that this application involves a determination as to the payability of the higher amount.
4. Expenditure recoverable through the service charge must be charged under the Fifth Schedule in each of the relevant leases in "such proportion as the Management Company or the Landlord shall at its or their discretion deem fair and appropriate having regard to all the Units in the building".
5. In the normal course of events, it would be entirely fair and appropriate to divide costs equally or in proportion to some measure of the size of each property, such as floor area or number of bedrooms for example, even if the charge to any one property did not precisely equate to the benefit received by that property. However, the wording of the leases in this case appear to the Tribunal to give the Applicant the discretion to charge the actual costs of works to individual flats to the lessee of each of those flats so long as they deem it fair and appropriate to do so having regard to the interests of all the lessees.
6. The Applicant's proposal to charge the actual costs of painting windows to each relevant flat seems to the Tribunal to be fair and appropriate in the circumstances. Therefore, the Tribunal is satisfied that the leases at the Forum and the Square entitle the Applicant to do so.
